

Department of English & Modern Languages

Telecommunications Minor

Students interested in pursuing a media career can combine a broad array of coursework with academic credits earned through internship in order to develop hands-on skills and a professional portfolio.

Eighteen credits selected from a wide range of options will enable a student to construct a telecommunications minor which best suits his or her career goals.

Phone: 410.651.8349

Fax: 410.651.6550

University of Maryland Eastern Shore
Department of English & Modern Languages

Wilson Hall
Princess Anne, MD 21853

www.umes.edu/english

TELC 214 Intro to Telecommunications

Explore the history of radio and TV

TELC 236 Interviewing

Learn to prepare for and conduct interviews

TELC 237 Radio Production

Practice the art of radio broadcasting

TELC 238 TV Production

Hands-on instruction in TV studio production

TELC 239 Intro to Broadcast Performance

Practice performances for television and radio

TELC 241 Basic News Writing & Reporting

The basics of print and broadcast journalism

TELC 303 Broadcasting Management

Apply management theory to the broadcast industry

TELC 333 Principles of Photojournalism

Understand video field production

TELC 336 Computer Graphics

Computer generated graphic design

TELC 472 Internship

Field placements in a professional environment

TELC 481 Dramatic Writing for Film and TV

Transfer an idea into a visual presentation through the process of script development