

The 3rd year DPT students visited the Cedar Chapel Special School in Snow Hill, MD to learn about seating, positioning and mobility devices for children with special needs.

“Our DPT students benefit from this real-life experience in the school setting in which they observe and interact with children and their specialized equipment.” Janet Mutschler, PT, MHS, PCS

Thanks to Joan Condyles, P.T. for providing this rich learning experience, sharing her expertise in seating and positioning and her pearls of wisdom for working with the pediatric population.

Cedar Chapel Special School is a warm, nurturing environment where everyone is committed to providing the best opportunities for our students to learn. We prepare our students with moderate and severe disabilities between the ages of 3 to 21 to be included in regular schools, to become gainfully employed, and to be self-sufficient in their homes and communities.
